the hooter went! Trouble is, the bumper-car man jumped on the back of our car and told us we weren't allowed to bump.

Grumpy said it was health and safety gone mad, so we had to stop doing it and hitting it and doing it!

Apparently we weren't in the bumper car, we were in a dodger.

Grumpy said it was health and safety gone mad, so we had to stop doing it and hitting it and doing it!

I hit my chin on the steering wheel.

"Can I have a stroke?" said Dylan. "I don't care how fluffy and nice it is," growled Mum. "He's going back to the zoo!"

I tried everything to stop her. I promised I'd look after him. I promised I'd put him in my foot locker and take him for rides on my new bike.

I promised I'd get a job to pay for his fish.

I promised I'd let him sleep with me. And have baths with me, in water that wasn't too hot.

I even promised I'd take him to school with me so that he could learn how to read and write and skip and everything.

were coming to see me when I got back from the zoo and Mum was going to bring a special birthday cake that she had baked all by herself, with an apron over everything!

Cabby said it was probably a good idea to have my big cake because if elephants sniffed a big cake, it would make them stampede all over us.

Stampedes are when loads of animals break out of their cages and run at you to get your cake.

Dylan said he saw a stampede of cows in a film once and they everything, including bushes, trees and a river. Plus they flattened my new bicycle.

He was probably the one holding the cake.

I wonder if it was his birthday too?

I looked at the cake and it was a big, round, round cake with a big, round, round top.

I looked at the cake and it was a big, round, round cake with a big, round, round top.

The trouble with padding pads is you have to blow them up with a pump.

Trouble was, Mum couldn't fit our pump so she had to do it with her mouth.

So while she was huffing and puffing and blowing, Gabby and I said we'd water the garden. Well we never actually said we'd water the garden, we just did it. While Mum wasn't looking.

First of all we watered the flowers because they looked really hot. Then we watered the grass, which was going a bit brown. Then we watered the shed, which was really brown. Then we watered Tiptoes.

The trouble with watering Tiptoes is he's a cat.

Which means he doesn't like it. Which isn't our fault, because when we watered him, he looked like he really wanted to be watered. I mean, he was right in a really hot bit of sun,

第四阶段 Developing as a reader

涉及到了一些长元音和多音节的单词，句子和单词难度都在逐步增强，可以让孩子一起朗读，慢慢培养孩子的阅读信心。

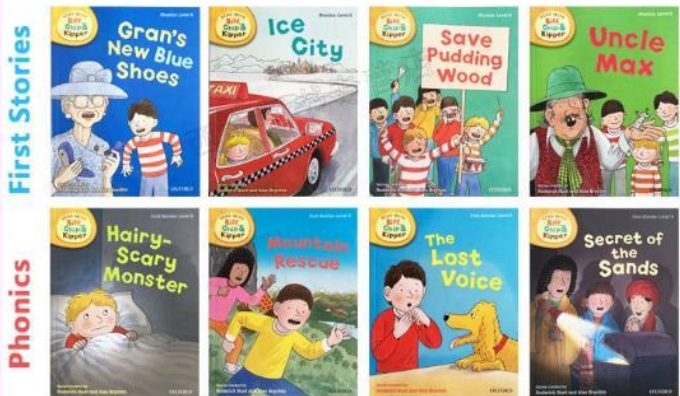

第五阶段 Building confidence in reading

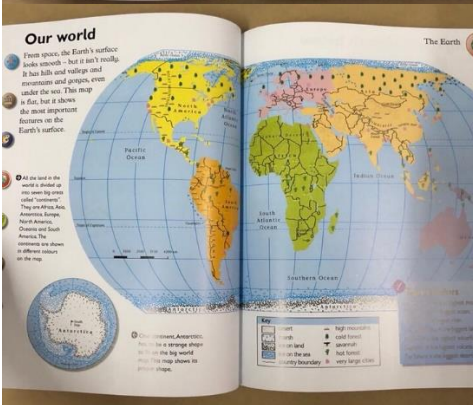

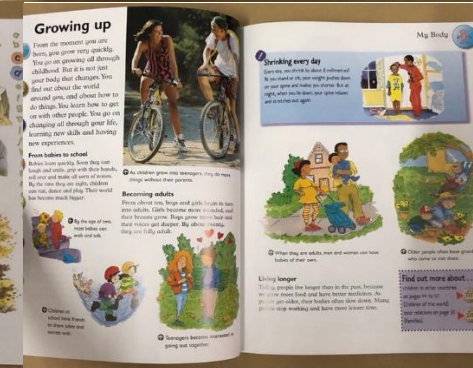

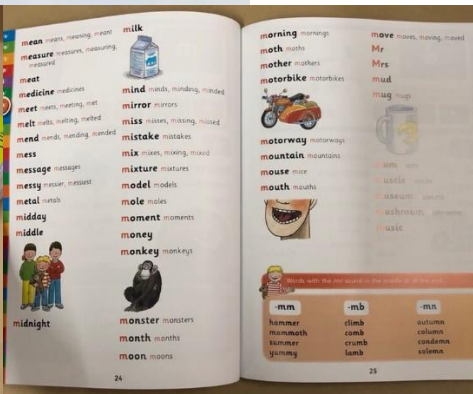

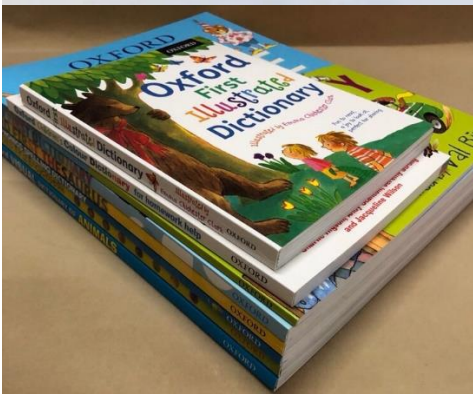

开始了解不同单词中相同的长元音音素，并且学习到一些拼写规则，句子也更多的为复合句，家长可以在读完故事后的孩子讨论其中的人物和情节，并鼓励孩子尝试默读来提高阅读技巧。

第六阶段 Reading with confidence

到这个阶段，孩子的词汇量以及简单的英语语法都会有基本的英语基础，阅读技巧和自信心也会相应提升，就可以让孩子开始独立阅读，体验阅读的快乐。

Close-up Look

Light enters the eye through the pupil. The iris is the colored part of the eye. The pupil is a hole that lets light in. The retina is at the back of the eye. It makes a picture of the object you are looking at.

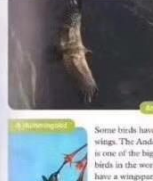

Light reflects off an object. The eye focuses the light on the retina. The retina has millions of optic nerve fibers that carry the information to the brain.

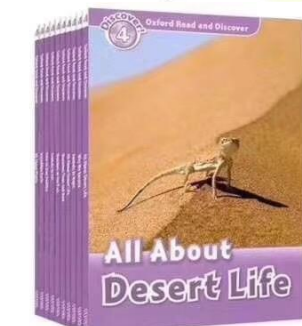

Wings and Feathers

Birds have many small feathers on their wings and tail. These are called flight feathers because they help birds to fly. Most birds also have longer feathers on their heads and necks. These are called head and neck feathers.

Some birds have long wings. The Andean Condor is one of the biggest birds in the world. Other flying birds are smaller. Some hummingbirds have wings that are only a few centimeters long.

8 Icy Oceans

Large parts of the Arctic Ocean and Southern Ocean have ice on them in winter. There are also big icebergs. In summer, a lot of the ice melts. Then there are little pieces of ice in the oceans, and the icebergs are smaller.

Polar bears live in the Arctic. Most of the year, they live on ice. They catch seals from holes in the ice. They also swim between the ice and icebergs. Polar bears are the biggest type of bear, but their cubs are very, very small when they are born.

Polar bear with cub

A penguin keeps its egg on its feet so it doesn't get cold on the ice.

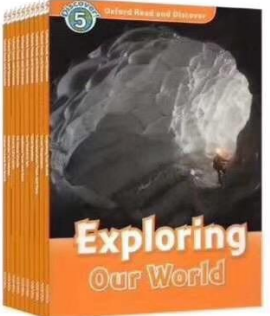

6 Easter Island Statues

Easter Island is in the Pacific Ocean, far from anywhere. The island is famous for its 887 stone statues. They have big heads and little bodies.

Why are the statues here? There is a story that 1,700 years ago, people were lost on the ocean. They arrived at this beautiful island. There were lots of plants and animals, so they stayed.

These people made the big statues for their gods. They made the statues with stone from the middle of the island. Then, up to 250 people transported the statues across the island to the coast, where they stand today.

The biggest statue is Papa Hango. It is now on the top of the island. It is about 10 meters long.

1000

It's a record for the most eggs in a nest. The bird is a Red-tailed Tropicbird. It laid 1000 eggs in a nest. The eggs are very small. The bird is a Red-tailed Tropicbird. It laid 1000 eggs in a nest. The eggs are very small.
